You can make a difference

Find out in this resource pack how you as a Dignity Champion or someone who works in Health or Social Care can help support Dignity Action Day

“It might well be that the difference people make individually is a mere ripple on the surface of our care system, but each of those ripples added together create a wave, a social movement and if this makes life better for some – then it has to be worthwhile.”

National Dignity Ambassador, Sir Michael Parkinson

WHAT’S IT ALL ABOUT?

Dignity Action Day asks health and social care workers to take action in their place of work to promote dignity. It also asks members of the public to do what they can to take action on this day to promote dignity for people in their communities. Dignity Action Day is organised by the Dignity in care Campaign which aims to ensure dignified care for all.

Dignity Action Day:

- Acts to remind society that dignity is everybody’s business
- Is about giving everybody the opportunity to contribute to upholding peoples’ right to dignity in the community
- Is about respect for both staff and the people they care for
- Includes activities which give those people who use care the chance to give something back too

As someone that works in health or social care, you are being asked to dedicate February 25th to taking some action around dignity. This can involve as much or little as you want. Read on to find out how you can give those you care for a Dignity Action Day to remember. There is also a resource pack for members of the public with extra ideas of what can be done outside of work to support Dignity Action Day and make a difference.

Phil Hope, Minister for Care Services, supports Dignity Action Day and encourages everyone to do whatever they can to support the day.

“The impact of so many people working together for change is fast becoming a social movement that is making a real difference to peoples lives”

The Dignity in Care Campaign aims to end tolerance towards indignity and discrimination in health and social care services by getting both staff and the public talking about what dignity in care means and inspiring them to take action. An army of over 12,000 people have joined the campaign as Dignity Champions and are doing what they can to improve dignity in care.

Over the past three years, the Dignity in Care Campaign has been encouraging health and social care staff to provide a more dignified service. It has provided frontline staff and managers with a range of resources and good practice to help them make sure the care they provide respects people’s dignity.

YOU CAN DO ALMOST ANYTHING!

Dignity Action Day is a day of celebration. It is a day to celebrate all that you and your colleagues have accomplished in delivering dignified care. It is also a day to celebrate those people at the centre of your care including yourselves as the providers. This Dignity Action Day is a day to do something above and beyond your usual tasks to be part of the national celebration for dignity in care.

In the words of Sir Michael Parkinson, National Dignity Ambassador it doesn’t matter who you are, everyone can get involved.

“Dignity in Care must be everybody’s business. I hope people will step up to this challenge and do whatever is in their power to make a difference”

As providers of care please support this initiative and do whatever is in your power to provide an outstanding Dignity Action Day.

Supporting Dignity Action day will:

- Raise awareness of the importance of Dignity in care
- Promote the services you provide and provide someone in your care with a special day
- Be part of a national celebration and demonstrate solidarity for Dignity in Care

SUPPORT AVAILABLE TO YOU

We do not expect you to work alone. We have a selection of resources that may help you in organising the day:

1. Idea generation- suggestions of what you could do at your place of work can be found overleaf

10. Advice and support - available via e-mail and telephone. Contact us as at dignityincare@dh.gsi.gov.uk or on 0207 9724007

DIGNITY ACTION DAY SUGGESTIONS

We have listed below ideas that you may wish to undertake in your place of work. These range from organising a coffee morning, putting up a display, showcasing your dignity initiatives or holding special activities for those you care for.

In a recent survey of almost 3000 people, three dignity priorities emerged, so if you are undecided about which activities you might wish to undertake then perhaps you could choose an activity: that treats people as individuals, provides stimulating activities and a sense of purpose and allows more choice and control on daily routines.

You are in the best position to decide what the people in your care would benefit from most, so please use the list as inspiration and come up with your own ideas.

• Organise a learning event for other staff to hear about your dignity initiatives
• Hold an open day and showcase the dignified service you provide
• Arrange question and answer sessions for staff, the people you care for and carers and invite them to discuss what dignity means to them
• Host an internal conference
• Supply information and advice about dignity to those who use the service and their loved ones

Please give the gift of time on 25 February
• Ask those you care for to make wishes for the day and do what you can to make them come true
• Organise a treat for people receiving care. This could take many forms including pamper sessions, local trips, special guest visits or taster sessions such as computing, tai chi, bowls, music, dance, quiz nights, bingo
• Organise an intergenerational visit to a school or community group
• Start to create a Life Story box for residents
• Help those you care for with their hobbies and interests
• Hold a party to celebrate Dignity Action Day and get everyone involved.
• Put up a dignity display in your place of work
• Utilise your website and newsletters to promote dignity
  ▪ Issue press releases about what your organisation is doing to support dignity action day
  ▪ Introduce the Dignity in Care campaign to your workplace by using downloadable resources and materials
  ▪ Get a colleague to sign up as a Dignity Champion
  ▪ Don’t forget to wear your Dignity in Care badge

WHERE ONE PERSON LEADS ANOTHER WILL FOLLOW:
PLEASE TELL US WHAT YOU ARE DOING

We are really interested to know what activities people are planning to undertake around Dignity Action Day and importantly we need to share these to inspire and encourage others. Be proud of your involvement with Dignity Action Day.

SETTING UP A DISPLAY

One of the easiest and most effective things you can do this Dignity Action Day is to set up a Dignity in Care display in your place of work.

- You can order posters, leaflets, cards and newsletters for your display from dignitychampions@dh.gsi.gov.uk
- Why not collect pictures of staff and the people you care for to display on the notice board
- Capture and draw attention to the initiatives you have implemented in your place of work to support dignified care
- Make a poster publicising what else you are doing to support Dignity Action Day

HOW TO HELP THOSE YOU CARE FOR GET THE MOST FROM THE DAY:

- Include people in discussions about what to do on the day
- Give people a choice of activities to choose from
- Invite people to participate – it does not have to be about you providing the activity. The people you normally provide care for could spend time sharing a skill of theirs with yourselves and others
- Ask people to invite their family and friends along
- Encourage people to discuss what dignity means to them

Please give the gift of time on 25 February
HOW TO HELP YOUR ORGANISATION GET THE MOST FROM THE DAY:

It is an ongoing objective of the Dignity in Care Campaign to publicise what is being done to improve dignity in care. Your organisation can use Dignity Action Day as a platform to showcase what you are doing.

Making Sure Everyone Knows What You are Doing

It is important not to assume that everyone knows what you are planning. Get as much support as you can for Dignity Action Day by ensuring everyone involved in the organisation knows what is going on. Invite everyone along. You can use the sample newsletter article and flyer attached to the document to publicise your involvement in Dignity Action Day.

Tell your friends, family and colleagues about Dignity Action Day. If you use online social networking tools such as MySpace, Facebook, Twitter, Bebo or have your own online blog or organisational website or email network, use these to help spread the word.

Obtaining Press Coverage

You are planning an activity that will really benefit those you care for and help promote dignity in care, so why not let as many people as possible know about it? You can contact your local media who may be interested in covering your story. Many journalists love person centred stories so you can tell them how, by carrying out your activity for Dignity Action Day, you are improving the care of particular individuals. We have a sample press release that you may wish to use to try get coverage in your local paper.

If you intend to obtain media coverage:

- Use the sample press release and adapt it to suit your activity and organisation, or write your own press release ensuring that the story is person centred. (Newspapers are more likely to cover stories that effect individuals rather than organisations)
- Contact the news desk of your local paper and try to find out which journalist might be interested in your story at least a couple of weeks in advance
- When talking to the news desk introduce yourself and briefly explain what the news item is about, highlighting the most interesting information first
- Email your press release to the journalist at the paper
- Ensure you follow up your email with a phone call the next day to ensure the journalist has received it.

CHECKLIST FOR SETTING UP EVENTS FOR DIGNITY ACTION DAY

If you do decide to set up an event or activity here are a few simple guidelines to help you on your way

1. Start preparations early
2. If you can not complete your idea on Dignity Action Day choose a date as close to Dignity Action Day as possible
3. Enlist a committed team of people to support you
4. Involve everyone in planning the event e.g. patients, residents, management, carers
5. Decide what you want to achieve and your aims for the day
6. Identify potential partners and volunteers to help you. Do not forget when you fill in the form to update us about what you are planning, there is the opportunity to detail what extra help you need. Other champions and members of the public will see this and can volunteer their time to you
7. Decide if it would be appropriate to invite along any local celebrities. This will help you raise the profile of dignity and your organisation. It may also help you obtain press coverage
8. Consider financial implications (remember there are lots of activities you can do that do not cost you anything – be innovative)
9. Organise a plan of action and distribute tasks
10. Let us know what you are doing by completing this form
11. Send out invitations as soon as possible
12. Plan your publicity
13. Arrange for someone to take pictures on the day

After the event is completed do not forget to evaluate what you have done to make it easier in the future if you are planning a similar event.

1. Thank everyone involved
2. Ask for feedback on the event from everyone and use this to build on for future events
3. Evaluate what you have achieved - is there something you would like to repeat on a regular basis?

The Dignity in care Campaign

The Dignity in care Campaign, which launched in November 2006, aims to stimulate a national debate around dignity in care and create a care system where there is zero tolerance of abuse and disrespect of adults. It is led by Government in partnership with many organisations that provide and commission care and protect the interests of those using care services and their carers.

Sir Michael Parkinson joined the campaign as the National Dignity Ambassador in May 2008 to help raise the profile of the campaign by bringing it to the attention of the public.

High quality care services that respect people’s dignity should:

- Have a zero tolerance of all forms of abuse
- Support people with the same respect you would want for yourself or a member of your family
- Treat each person as an individual by offering a personalised service
- Enable people to maintain the maximum possible level of independence, choice and control
- Listen and support people to express their needs and wants
- Respect people’s right to privacy
- Ensure people feel able to complain without fear of retribution
- Engage with family members and carers as care partners
- Assist people to maintain confidence and a positive self esteem
- Act to alleviate people’s loneliness and isolation
